

CHARLEY CASTEX

Autumn 2008 - NEWSLETTER

"We cannot prevent the birds of sorrow from flying overhead - But we can prevent them from making nests in our hair."
—Persian saying

Dear Friends,

Now safely returned home to the magical isle of Oahu, I draft this update following a series of lush and shamelessly unspoiled tropical days.

At this moment, above my house, high definition skies of cobalt blue are lit by the arresting vividness of two arching story book rainbows - spanning the breadth and scale of Rhode Island. After more than eight thousand ambitious miles of touring, Hawaii's dreamy skies and post card perfect beaches are a sanity restoring prescription that I suspect any competent naturopath might sagely advise. Here on an island, nature does all the talking - all I need do is unplug my melon, repeatedly hit the snooze bar on my body clock and lazily wait until all six senses are rebooted.

Our recent message gallery workshop in North Carolina: "Your Sacred Gift" was a jewel of a treat this summer. The day was full of humorously poignant messages delivered "on the fly" to our lively group of animated and attentive seekers. On the morning of August third, I did my best to offer what I could from my own "experience based" brand of psychic development (honor graduate of the school of hard knocks). My Function was as a personal intuitive coach pointing toward all accessible entries to the psychic path. Our event was held in a stately historic castle: "Homewood Event Center" (envision a medieval European church restored in a Victorian Manor style) Both participants and the Homewood staff were a class act, giving the whole event an air of grace. Towards the end of the day, I fielded questions on all things spiritual before we all commenced and exchanged smiles, bliss and bear hugs - good medicine. This summer tour was the culmination of many months of dizzying, logistical planning. I performed over seventy readings in five weeks and thanks to my beloved wife Kathryn...and all my dear supporters, our journey was sweet and soul satisfying.

The only thing better than a life of traveling, is having the "Best Job in the World" which offers to take you traveling once again! So, I will be scheduling limited in-person sittings this October in beautiful Maui, Hawaii. (see special events) Our next stop will be San Francisco, California for several days of in person readings. By November we will complete our late fall itinerary by visiting the Land of Enchantment: New Mexico - I will offer a limited schedule of in person sittings in the magical cities of Santa Fe and Albuquerque. In these days of worldwide uncertainty and instability I often get asked for my personal take on the world situation. One thing I can tell you is "your heart is the choice instrument of navigation, protection and lasting joy - so do the world some good and listen to it's message. And always remember the heroes of the world outnumber the villains by two to one".

Grace always,

Charley

