Spring 2009 - NEWSLETTER

"The most endangered species - the honest man, will survive annihilation, forming a world- a state of integrity- (that is) sensitive, open and strong."

—Natural science: Neil Peart

Greetings Folks,

2009 is moving forward and with it comes inevitable speculation about the global crisis (financial & otherwise). Many high profile Intuitives have been recently called upon to offer their gracious predictions of our days ahead in the newborn twenty first century.

That's fine and good for them- not so much for moi. My gift operates in a relational way- a person is presented to me – I then internally feel, listen and look, before sharing my various perceptions, hoping they will prove accurate and insightful. It seems to me, reading for a society or civilization no matter how justifiably unsettled their populace may be, is too large of a "person, place or thing" for me to wrap my feelers around. Somewhat flippantly, I have been advising those seeking my predictive world view – "not to drink the Kool aid." Yes, I am a professional prognosticator, celebrated clairvoyant spiritual teacher and all-but... perhaps because of my hyper perceptiveness, I notice a glaring, emphatic news media spin once again leveraged toward panic. (New and improved crises- same low calories)

I fully admit this jaded attitude of mine is a likely by product of having been uncomfortably corralled though many an airport since 9-11. Laughably, airport intercoms routinely blare inane warnings about accepting packages from unknown persons, encouraging increased vigilance for "Suspicious" activity. In these most public of places, I know security warnings are issued for our own good. Still, I possess little faith in loudspeaker "terror alerts" that induce incapacitating fear and greater conviction in the inherent commonsense of a peaceful public to "look out for itself." I suppose you could say- I view FEAR as the greatest Weapon of Mass Destruction and consider LOVE the glue that unites and delights the human heart, bonding our universe. How can we embrace the moment to moment challenge of choosing between love and fear... well, that my friend is your personal ticket to conscious and empowered living.

Speaking of conscious empowered living- nestled amongst the breathtaking mountains of Northern New Mexico lives an oasis for body- mind & soul. "Body" of Santa Fe is an eye popping, Events center/Yoga venue/Healing arts spa/Gourmet organic Café all under one elegant roof.

I am honored to announce my new residency at Body of Santa Fe- performing private readings on Friday afternoons. In addition- I will be hosting ongoing monthly "Evening of Spirit" Message gallery events.

Sunday March 15th marks our "open house" Evening of Spirit- introductory event and Sunday April 19th is the next scheduled EOS. I am anticipating a lovely sharing of messages and Spiritual guidance straight from my heart to yours. Check my special events page for links on the details of all upcoming events in Santa Fe—Hope to see you there- come on out and join us for a transformative evening of Spirit!

Grace always...

In the light,
Charley
